Qualifications:

A Ph.D. degree in molecular biology, genetics, or a related field with excellent oral and written communication skills and willingness to work in a multi-disciplinary team environment are required. A candidate with demonstrated expertise in studying hormone signaling in plant roots with a track record of relevant publications and an interest in vivo imaging of roots is sought. Applicants cannot have received the most recent degree more than five years prior to the date of application and must complete all degree requirements before starting their appointment. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Technical Questions:

Questions regarding the position can be directed to Udaya Kalluri at kalluriudayc@ornl.gov. Please include the requisition number and title when corresponding.

How to Apply:

Qualified applicants must apply online at https://www2.ornl.gov/ORNL_POST/. All applicants will need to register before they can begin the online application. For complete instructions, on how to apply, please see the instructions at <http://www.ornl.gov/orise/edu/ornl/ornl-pdpm/application.htm>.

This appointment is offered through the ORNL Postgraduate Research Participation Program and is administered by the Oak Ridge Institute for Science and Education (ORISE). The program is open to all qualified U.S. and non-U.S. citizens without regard to race, color, age, religion, sex, national origin, physical or mental disability, or status as a Vietnam-era veteran or disabled veteran.
